The Minister for Justice

Sir,

I have the honour to submit the following report on crime which came to the notice of the Garda Siochána during the year ending the 31st. December, 1981.

The indictable offences recorded for the year numbered 89,400 showing an increase over the figures for the previous year when 72,782 indictable offences were recorded. The principal increase in terms of numbers recorded occurred in Group III, which includes larcenies and frauds. In that group 12,344 extra offences were recorded.

The noticeable drop in armed bank robberies in the second half of 1980 continued throughout 1981 when 12 bank raids took place compared with 38 in 1980 and 44 in 1979. There was, however, a disturbing increase in the overall number of armed robberies with 306 committed during the year compared with 194 in 1980 and 228 in 1979.

There were 528 fatal road traffic accidents during the year resulting in the deaths of 572 people. These figures show an increase of 28 in the number of fatal accidents and an increase of 11 in the number of persons killed compared with the previous year.

The misuse of drugs has continued to escalate and is of particular concern to the community. During the year 1,256 persons were found in illegal possession and there were 1,204 seizures of drugs, compared with 991 persons found in illegal possession and 813 seizures in the previous year. The largest seizure was of 1,620 kilogrammes of cannabis (approximate value £4.5M) at Dublin Docks in September, 1981.

A decision to increase the personnel in the drug units in Dublin, Cork and Limerick and to set up a new unit at Garda Headquarters to combat international drug trafficking was taken on 15th May, 1981. This decision effectively increased the overall strength of the drug units by 113%.

An advanced drug training course, with lecturers experienced in drug enforcement and extern experts including some from abroad, was developed for the training of the general body of Gardai. Members have been attending this course on a continuing basis since February 1981. While every member of the Force has a commitment to drug enforcement, those undergoing this course will have an added competency to undertake the investigation of the more serious drug cases.

The number of members of the Force injured on duty in 1981 was 134, of whom 81 were injured during protest marches to the British Embassy, Ballsbridge, Dublin, on 17th May and 19th July, 1981. While the general upward trend in criminality continued and many Gardai were injured, it was fortunate that the year was not marked by the murder of any member of the Force.

During the year there was a marked increase in the number of indictable proceedings commenced in the District Courts. Proceedings were commenced in 30,184 cases in 1981 and 26, 814 cases in 1980, an increase of 3,370. The number of persons under 17 years of age who were dealt with for minor crimes without being brought before the District Court was 2,215. Of this number 1,488 were admitted to the Juvenile Liaison Scheme and 727 were the subject of less formal supervisory procedures. 34.2% of the total number of persons apprehended for indictable offences were under 17 years of age.

The maintaining of order in society depends not alone on controlling the bad, but also on activating the good. During the year the response from the public and the media was encouraging, with many tributes paid to members of the Force for their dedication, professionalism and impartiality. I am pleased to record my appreciation of their support and co-operation. While there are many serious weaknesses in our legal system requiring change, the existence of laws and their enforcement alone will not ensure an acceptable standard of public behaviour. Apart from the many agencies from whom a high degree of co-ordination and determination is required, the most powerful controlling influence in society can be pressure of public opinion and the general expectation of a community regarding the behaviour of its members. It is necessary that all the agencies and influences be brought to a greater degree of co-operation in creative projects aimed at developing mutual trust and understanding between all the diverse elements in our society.

Yours respectfully,

CRIME PREVENTION

A Crime Prevention Advisory Service operates in each Garda Division outside the Dublin Metropolitan Area. In Dublin the Crime Prevention Officers work from a central office in Osmond House. The object of this exercise is to anticipate, recognise and appraise crime risks and to initiate preventive action where appropriate.

The Crime Prevention Exhibition room at Osmond House, Ship Street, Dublin, provides an opportunity for the public to view security devices and to procure appropriate advice.

A 'Garda Patrol' programme was produced each week for transmission by R.T.E. 1 and R.T.E. 2. Public response to the programme was most heartening and many detections resulted from confidential information received as a result. A special crime prevention feature is included on a regular basis and the object of this is to focus public attention on the necessity to take suitable protective measures for the safety of personal property.

In the D.M.A. a total of 309 commercial properties were surveyed while in the remainder of the country 4,663 such properties were examined.

Lectures and talks were given to Residents Associations, Ladies Clubs, Security Organisations, and Business and Commercial Groups on various aspects of Crime Prevention. A total of 47 such lectures were given in the D.M.A. and 281 in the remainder of the country.

JUVENILE LIASION SCHEME

During the year 1981 further extensions of the Juvenile Liaison Scheme took place within the Force. During that period twenty two additional Juvenile Liaison Officers were appointed. This provided for the extension of the Scheme to all Garda Divisions as well as the augmentation of the existing strength in other areas. The degree of involvement not only includes the rehabilitation of young people in conflict with the law but also encompasses youth work in it's full expression.

To provide for this task, a four week training course was provided for all established and newly appointed Juvenile Liaison Officers, which included information on the role of Special Schools, Child Guidance Clinics and the many other agencies involved in the care and rehabilitation of deprived and delinquent youth. Instruction is now being given to all training on the value of a positive involvement with youth and friendly working relationships with statutory bodies and voluntary youth leaders.

A fully qualified psychologist, who is a member of the Force, is now attached to the Community Relations Office, Garda Headquarters. He provides a psychological input in the Juvenile Liaison Scheme and lectures to the Force at training courses.

A personnel carrier has been allocated on a part time basis to the Juvenile Liaison Officers in the Dublin Metropolitan Area. This is used to take supervisors and young people at risk on educational and recreational tours to places of interest in the city and country. It is also used to take young people to community games and other sporting events.

The Scheme is now equipped to provide a more meaningful involvement with youth, aimed at a greater understanding and willing acceptance of the rule of law. There is every reason to look forward to further success for the Scheme in it's extended role.

Since the inception of the scheme in 1963, 16,139 offenders have been cautioned and supervised by the Gardaí.

Outside the areas where Juvenile Liaison Officers have been appointed there is also provision for the cautioning of juveniles under the age of 17 years for certain minor crimes and offences. These young people are subject to a less formal type of surveillance by the local Gardai for as long as may be necessary, and are included in the figure of 2570 at column 17 of indictable offences table.

GARDA COMMUNITY RELATIONS

The Garda Community Relations Office at Garda Headquarters has responsibility for directing, controlling and monitoring the activities of Garda Community Relations Officers who operate in each Garda Division outside of the Dublin Metropolitan Area. The aims of this section are to liaise with statutory and voluntary groups; to foster a better understanding of the Gardai amongst the public so that greater support may be given to the Force in its role of preventing and detecting crime; to instil by way of instruction and encouragement a respect for law and order and to cultivate a degree of public awareness which will win the goodwill and co-operation that is so vital to effective policing.

Community Relations programmes are aimed at getting the full support and confidence of the community, without which the Force cannot effectively operate.

Our efforts in this regard have to date been successful in creating a greater awareness of the role and functions of the Force and the response from the public has been most encouraging.

Over 1,900 talks on Community Relations were given to various voluntary and other groups throughout the country by officers attached to this section during the year.

MISUSE OF DRUGS ACT

The strength of the full time Drug Units at Dublin, Cork and Limerick were significantly increased during the year. A unit was established at Garda Headquarters to combat international drug trafficking. This effectively increased the number of members whole time engaged in the investigation of drug abuse by 113%.

1,256 persons were charged with offences under the Misuse of Drugs Act, 1977 during the year 1981. This compares with 991 in 1980, an increase of 26.74%. 1,204 seizures of drugs were made in 1981, compared with 813 in the previous year; the largest seizure being of 1,620 kilogrammes of cannabis at Dublin Docks in September, 1981.

An on-going Drug Investigation Course has been in operation at Garda Headquarters since February, 1981. This course is of 3 weeks duration. Lecturers are drawn from experienced members of the Force and external experts, some of whom are from outside the country.

The assistance provided by the Customs Service, at the various entry points to the State, has been considerable and the fruitful liasion between the Force and the Customs Service will continue to make it difficult for importers of illegal drugs.

438 lectures and talks were given by members of the Gardai to different groups and organisations during 1981. This figure compares with 246 in 1980 and 131 in 1979.

PUBLIC RELATIONS AND PRESS OFFICE

The staff at Press/Public Relations Office continue to offer the media an avenue for up-to-date and accurate information on Garda matters so that reporting can be both full and fair.

The activities pursued by the staff involved the provision of information to a wide cross section of the community, both individuals and groups. A large number of enquiries were received from young people, who, judging from past experience, may have been prompted to consider a career in the Garda.

To mark the International Year of Disabled Persons an Open Day was held at Garda Headquarters, Phoenix Park on the 23rd August. Various sections of the Force, including a Marching Party of Recruit Gardai from the Training Centre at Templemore, Motor Cycle Team from Dublin Castle, Tow Truck Team, Dog Team and Garda Band entertained a large gathering of disabled persons and their families.
